Excerpt: . chapter xii. results, commercial and scientific, of our expedition. In reviewing the results of our expedition, it is fair to give precedence to its commercial features, as our chief mission was strictly a commercial or industrial one. We shared the fate of the great majority of industrial pioneers--to return empty-handed; but although the direct results were negative, a careful study of the expedition will be useful to those who contemplate further ventures in Antarctic regions, indicating the paths which must in future be avoided, and also the rational way to an exploitation of these waters. The most important negative result is the proof--bought at a cost to Norwegians of about, 5,000--that Right whales do not at present congregate in summer-time in the Antarctic pack-ice or along the shores of South Victoria Land in paying numbers from the whaler s point of view. That my original advocacy of the expedition was, nevertheless, justified will be admitted by every unprejudiced person who reads the glowing accounts of Sir James Ross as to the numbers of Right whales met with during his two visits in 1840-41 to the same regions. I will, in selfjustification, cite a few of the more important passages in his report bearing on this matter: Vol. i., p. 169: December 29.-- A great many whales were seen, chiefly of the common black kind, greatly resembling, but said to be distinct from, the Greenland whale; sperm as well as hunchbacked whales were also...
