My question really has to do with the expense to business for that as well as how we can make sure that we achieve the maximum notification for the most efficient cost. Clearly - and this is a point, Mr. Hendricks, that you mentioned - we dont want the obligations here to be so onerous that we defeat our own purpose by making them too expensive and, therefore, have blow-back against our ideas here because of the ex-pense. Mr. MacCarthy Mr. M C. Mr. Chairman, let me return to the previous AC ARTHY question. Our cardholder information security program applies to all entities that touch Visa cardholder information, public or pri-ate. So we think any kind of security regime should extend across the board and include all people who hold sensitive data. On the particular question, we think that the legislation is bal-anced. It does recognize the significant risk principle where infor-mation is provided to customers in the context of a significant risk of harm. We think it provides the flexibility for working out the way that notification could take place. We like its consistent na-tional approach. We think it does - the key elements that need to be in Federal legislation are incorporated in that bill. Chairman K. Thank you. YL ENDRICKS Mr. H. Yes, and I think this will always be a case-by-case, which is good about your bill, because you leave it to sort of you have...
