Reviews

This publication will be worth purchasing. It really is written in simple terms instead of difficult to understand. It's been designed in an exceptionally simple way and is particularly only right after i finished reading this ebook in which basically modified me, alter the way i believe.

Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Jocelyn Tsaih (illustrator). 216 x 216 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . This book tells the story of a group of kindergartners and college students as they explore what it means to grow. Reading it, children will find out that growing includes learning about their bodies, where food comes from, and beautiful places in the world. The book is a culmination of The Growing Project, a curriculum created by college students working in partnership with a kindergarten class. It is a celebration of children's voices and learners' self-worth at every stage of development -- a narrative about and by young people who embark on a journey of discovery that connects their own health and future with that of the world. I like it! -AL, Thorne Kindergarten Student It's awesome! -JM, Thorne Kindergarten Student How can we grow a better world? This question turns a group of children into explorers - of their neighborhood and the neighborhoods of distant continents. They learn that sharing and caring for the world take root when they grow together. Delightful illustrations spark a story that will inspire kids and the grown-ups who care for them. -J.C. Todd, grandmother and Lecturer in Creative Writing, Bryn Mawr College Children will love this fanciful and informative book about what they do best: growing! All readers will find inspiration in how the book itself grew -- a vital collaboration among college students and kindergarten creating a curriculum, and a vision, to help the world. -Alice Lesnick, PH.D., Director/Bryn Mawr/Haverford Education Program To learn more about The Growing Project, please visit: All proceeds from the sale of this book will benefit Titagya Schools in Northern Ghana, a pre-school and kindergarten enterprise that shares the book...
